In addition to a 25+ year career in commercial real estate marketing and development (David currently serves as Managing Partner of Site Services Group, LLC, an Atlanta-based land marketing and land consulting firm), David also has over ten years experience in the planning, development, management and marketing of major sporting facilities.

As the founding President of General Recreation Corporation of Atlanta (the first state-wide franchisee of Nautilus Exercise Equipment in the nation), David was responsible for the planning and installation of numerous health, fitness and racquet club facilities throughout the Southeast. General Recreation's clients included such institutions as the New Orleans Athletic Club, the Atlanta Athletic Club, the Piedmont Driving Club, and a Nautilus-equipped strength and fitness center for coach Paul Dietzel at the University of South Carolina.

Later, as President of Club Management Corporation, David was responsible for the development of the 12 acre, 70,000 sq. ft. Terminus International Racquet Club in Atlanta. The Terminus facility included indoor and outdoor tennis courts, an outdoor swim complex and extensive health club facilities, including racquetball and squash courts and men's and women's fitness facilities (see photos below).

The Terminus Racquet Club was developed as the centerpiece of the 120 acre North X Northwest Office Park in suburban Atlanta. In the early 1980's it was selected by Tennis Magazine as one of the fifty greatest indoor tennis clubs in the United States.
